

[November 22, 2016]

For anyone who believes the Presidency of Donald Trump is not going to be an unmitigated Hell for the country, I offer as "Exhibit A" Broadway producer Jeffery Seller. When Seller learned that Veep-elect Mike Pence was going to attend a performance of Seller's smash-hit musical "Hamilton", the squeaky gears began to turn in his wee brain:

We had to ask ourselves, how do we cope with this? Our cast could barely go on stage the day after the election. The election was painful and crushing to all of us here. We all struggled with what was the appropriate and respectful and proper response.

On November 18th, Pence and his family took their seats while showered with jeers from the audience. The audience gave the actors playing Alexander Hamilton and the Marquis de Lafayette a standing ovation when they sang from the song "Yorktown (The World Turned Upside Down)": "Immigrants, we get the job done". The song "You'll Be Back (Reprise)" had to be stopped several times as the audience jeered Pence on every line.

As Pence and his family were being ushered out during the curtain call, cast member Brandon Victor Dixon stepped forward:

Vice President-elect Pence, I see you walking out, but I hope you will hear us, just a few more moments... We have a message for you, sir. We hope that you will hear us out.

Then he read a statement by Seller and the show's creator, Lin-Manuel Miranda:

We, sir, are the diverse America who are alarmed and anxious that your new administration will not protect us, our planet, our children, our parents, or defend us and uphold our inalienable rights. We truly hope this show has inspired you to uphold our American values and work on behalf of all of us. All of us. We truly thank you for sharing this show, this wonderful American story told by a diverse group of men, women of different colors, creeds, and orientation.

Well, at least he said "Sir".

Speaking of protecting us, our planet, children, parents, and defending and upholding our inalienable rights, isn't that what then-Senator Obama promised to do?

But I digress...

Had Hillary Clinton won and now VP-elect Tim Kaine decided to take in a play, only to be lectured on the need to secure our borders, protect the unborn, and defend religious liberty and traditional marriage as the audience jeered him, think the Special Snowflakes would be okay with that? But they can't appreciate the blatant double-standard; they're too-busy hugging themselves for "scoring" a "blow" against "tyranny".

Which explains why #BoycottHamilton trended #1 all day Saturday on Twitter.

After Pence left, Seller said: "I hope that maybe it inspires him to feel for those not like him." Funny how the only people "not like" Pence (or Seller) at the Richard Rodgers Theatre that night were the ones on the stage! The next day, Miranda had the gall to tweet that "ALL are welcome" to his one-trick dog-and-pony show. Funny how Miranda didn't have the guts to blindside Pence himself.

Anyhoo, Hell will freeze over before Trump gets the apology he is demanding; Gail King and Norah O'Donnell even chuckled on "CBS This Morning" about the very notion as Charlie Rose asked Dixon if "an apology is forthcoming". There is also no doubt Hell will freeze over before Dixon apologizes for a 2012 tweet about St. Patrick's Day weekend being a target-rich environment for black men wanting to nail drunken Irish girls!

But I digress...

The stunt Seller and Miranda pulled was actually quite tame compare to the bile which was spewed in the days after the election. I took it upon myself to scour the internet for reactions. To say the elites are losing their minds over the cold, hard, fact that they are as every bit as irrelevant as they always knew they were is an understatement of epic proportions. * @joss: "WE HAD THE TIME MACHINE AND WE STILL DIDN'T STOP HITLER".

Allow me to point out to Hillary's Hos two facts about The Orange Boogeyman which will REALLY make them shit their pantsuits:

* Trump is NO conservative. From 1989-2015, The Donald doled out $584,850 to Democratic Party groups and candidates, including: Charlie Rangel, Kristen Gillibrand, Chuck Schumer (cousin of Amy Schumer), John Kerry, Ted Kennedy, Harry Reid (oops!), Rahm Emanuel, and Kamala Harris. He not only has no problem with Obama's morale-crushing LGBTQ-ification of the military, he told "60 Minutes" that "marriage equality" is "law" -- breaking his pledge to uphold the GOP platform.

AAANNND...

* He used to kick it with... Bill and Hill! In his 2000 book The America We Deserve, he called out the hypocrisy of the "moralists in Congress and in the media" feigning disgust with Bubba's bimbo eruptions, heaped praise upon Hillary when she was elected to the Senate, and guess who The Donald invited to his 2005 wedding to Trophy Wife #3? He even ponied up $100,000 to the Clinton Slush Fund - oops! - Foundation. Those calling him a hypocrite because his transition team is stacked with ex-lobbyists for firms with ties to the Clinton Slush Fund haven't been paying attention.

I am not happy because Trump won. He is a graceless, classless, duplicitous turd -- and those are his good qualities! I am happy because We The People found the courage to use him as the vehicle to crush the treasonous Obama/Clinton oligarchy once and for all! The real Alexander Hamilton would be jolly well pleased.
